IN THE LEGISLATURE

The Walton Capitol Bill Passed Second Reading last Night.

ALL CHANGES WERE VOTED DOWN

There was Some Opposition, But It Did Not Amount to Much—More Bills Were Read in Place. Members Want a Holiday. Other Business.

Harrisburg, April 12.—The Walton capitol bill passed the house on second reading to-night on a special order and will be considered to-morrow on Third reading and final passage. Many changes were suggested to the measure, but all were voted down. Speeches against the bill were made by Messrs. Crothers, of Philadelphia; Hammond, of Westmoreland. and Focht, of Union. Frank B. McClain, of Lancaster, the leader of the opposition to the measure, made a short speech defining his position.

THE SENATE.

The senate met at 9 o'clock this evening with President Pro Tem McCarrell in the chair. These bills were read in place and properly referred:

By Mr. Grady—Requiring any plaintiff against a foreign corporation to file a certificate with the secretary of the commonwealth before the plaintiff can collect the claims.

By Mr. Hyde—Authorizing contracts to be entered into between overseers of the poor of many boroughs or townships in counties not having poor houses, and the authorities in charge of the poor in adjoining counties having county poor houses, for the maintenance of the poor.

By Mr. Vaughan—Permitting the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine when such article is colored a non-poisonous deep green, and extending the penalties to $500 fine for each violation of the act and six months' imprisonment for the first offense, either or both, and imprisonment of two years for each subsequent offense.

The following bills were among those that passed first reading:

Extending the term of a liquor license to three years; to repeal local road, bridge and highway laws in the several townships and counties of the state; an act defining libel and its punishment.

After being is session just twenty-five minutes the senate adjourned until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

A bill was introduced in the house by Mr. Bolles, of Philadelphia, to provide for the licensing of shows, exhibitions, theatrical, operatic, dramatic or circus performances, and fixing the price to be paid in cities of the first class at $500; second class cities, $400; third class, $75; and boroughs and townships, $50. The license must be obtained from the treasurer of the county in which the exhibition is to be given.

Mr. Stewart, of Philadelphia, presented a bill appropriating $20,000 to the Pennsylvania nautical schoolship, Philadelphia.

A new Congressional apportionment bill was introduced by Mr. Wenk, of Forest. It is similar to that defeated two years ago.

A bill introduced by Mr. Lytle, of Huntingdon, appropriates $20,000 to carry into effect the act of March 30, 1897, making constables of townships ex-officio fire wardens for the extinction of forest fires.

The direct inheritance bill drafted by Deputy Attorney General Elkin was read the first time on a special order and will come up Wednesday afternoon for second reading.

A concurrent resolution was offered by Mr. Voorhees, of Philadelphia, and adopted that the legislature attend in a body the unveiling of the Washington monument in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, May 15, 1897, and that a committee of two senators and three members be appointed to make the necessary arrangements.

Mr. McConnell, of Philadelphia, presented a resolution, which was adopted, enforcing the efforts being made by the labor organizations throughout the state and country to establish a uniform eight-hour day system, and believing that it would be beneficial to employer and employe alike, urge upon every employe within the state the necessity of lending their aid to establish this system by preparing to accept its terms at as early a time as may be convenient.

The Date of Easter.

The date of Easter is determined by the ecclesiastical calendar of the Catholic church. It is a very complicated and elaborate affair invented by Lillus, a Neapolitan astronomer and sage, under Pope Gregory XIII, at the close of the sixteenth century. It would be preposterous to tax the brains of modern readers with the abstruse calculations by which the date of Easter is determined, but a few general rules might be given for their enlightenment.

The regulations of the councils of Nice are four: First, Easter must be celebrated on a Sunday; second, this Sunday must follow the fourteenth of the paschal moon; third, the paschal moon is that moon whose fourteenth day falls on or next follows the day of the vernal equinox; fourth, the equinox is fixed invariably in the calendar on the 21st day of March.

This calendar moon, it should be remembered, is not the moon of the heavens nor yet the moon of the astronomers, but it is an imaginary moon created for ecclesiastical convenience. From these conditions it follows that Easter Sunday cannot happen earlier than the 22d of March or later than the 25 of April.

Save Your Temper.

Probably no small article among the indispensables of modern life causes more annoyance than a poor pen, when writing. Some say they have never yet found a pen to suit them. Our ideal of a pen, is one that seems to glide over the paper without effort, and by its own qualities makes the writing neater and more legible.

Experts in writing say that the Spencerian Co's Pens are the best. Whether this is so, it is not for us to say, but we are informed that those who send return postage to their New York Office, 450 Broome St., will receive samples of several different numbers, among which may yet be found that greatly to be desired thing, a pen that does not spoil one's writing and one' temper.

This Was Civil Service.

Scranton, Pa. April 12. —Although this city,s councils contain a democratic majority of two on joint ballot. the present republican city engineer. Joseph P. Phillips. was re-elected to-night by a majority of eight votes over E' F. Blewitt, a democrat, and an ex-city engineer. There was a deadlock in the vote for city solicitor. After balloting three times, the meeting adjourned for one week. City Solicitor James F Torrey, republican, and ex-Senator M. E. McDonald, democrat, were the city solicitor candidates.

Quarters for National Guard.

Adjutant General Stewart, who has been in New York endeavoring to find quarters for the Pennsylvania soldiers who will represent the Keystone state at the Grant monument dedication, has decided upon Grand Central palace, Forty-fourth street and Lexington avenue. It is a large hall used for exhibition purposes and well adapted to the purpose.

POPULISTS ARE GREEDY

They are an Element of Weakness in the Scheme

TO DEFEAT THE REPUBLICANS

Mr. Allen's Pretensions—He Wants to Be on the Appropriation and Other Important Committees.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The situation in regard to the filling of the vacancies in the senate committees has been further complicated by the efforts of the combination of Democrats, Silver Republicans and Populists to bring about the defeat of the Republican plan for reorganization There is one element of weakness in their scheme, which may upset it, and that is the greed of the populistic wing of the aggregation. As the price of their support they demand places on almost every important committee and greatly in excess of their numerical proportion to the other parties. For instance, Mr. Allen, of Nebraska, will not be content unless he occupies one of the vacant seats at the table of the appropriations committee, and has envious glances directed toward other important committees, notably that on the District of Columbia. Another Populist thinks he will only be happy on the judiciary committee and Mr. Harris, of Kansas, has an eye on the Pacific railroads committee. Mr Butler of North Carolina, is not content with his minor chairmanship, but wishes places on some of the more influential committees.

The silver Republicans. too, are not modest. Mr Pettigrew wishes to retain the chairmanship of the Indian committee, which fell to his lot while he was in the Republican fold, and Senator Teller would like to remain at the head of the claims committee, together with the desirable place on the appropriations committee, while others less fortunately fixed have aspirations. The Democratic steering committee, therefore, have quite a task before them to harmonize the differences of opinion which exist in the allied camp.

The Republican committee on committees has received replies from nearly every senator, naming their committee preferences. These will be grouped and presented at the meeting of the committee to-morrow morning. Its members believe they can reconcile any family differences which may arise in the scramble for desirable assignments, and will proceed with their plan for reorganization as rapidly as possible. They are not greatly disturbed over the plans of their opponents to take control of the committees. "If they are able to do it," said one of the Republicans, "let them take the committees. We will be satisfied."

Will not make Armor for $300.

Philadelphia, April 12.—Joseph Wharton of this city, a large stockholder of the Bethlehem Iron Works, and a director of the company, expressed surprise when informed of Senator Chandler's proposition that the government seize the Carnegie and Bethlehem plants. He characterized the idea as absurd in the highest degree.

"The statements that the Carnegie and Bethlehem plants were begging for government aid a few years ago is entirely false," he said. "It is a fact that neither company will make armor plates for $300 a ton, or anything like that price."

State Fair at Altoona.

Altoona is to have the state fair this year. A meeting of the state fair committee was held yesterday and the arrangements were completed. Altoona is to furnish the buildings used. The fair will last from September 6 to 11 and applications for space are already filed.

Base Ball Yesterday.

The New York league team defeated Princeton by a score of 18 to 6. Philadelphia defeated Athletics, 9 to 0.

Washington defeated Toronto 9 to 2 Baltimore defeated Syracuse 9 to 1.

Desire Colonial Relics.

The Pennsylvania Society of Colonial Dames of America propose to send an exhibit of Colonial relics to the centennial exhibition, to be held in Nashville, Tenn., from May 1st until November 1st, 1897. All articles loaned will be insured during transportation and while exhibited in historic hall at Nashville. The hall is fire proof and will be guarded day and night.

It is not desirable to transport large pieces of furniture or portraits, but anything else belonging to the Colonial period will be acceptable: miniatures, jewelry, silver, pewter ware, arms and equipments, dresses, embroideries, buckles, any articles of historic value. The relics will be received from April 26th to May 1st, and while awaiting transportation will be kept in a trust company.

Articles should be sent to Mrs. Roland G. Curtin, 22 South 18th street, Philadelphia, chairman of the committee on relics for the Tennessee exposition.

Claim an Illustrious Ancestor.

After a two month's race across the country and through many cities in pursuit of her demented husband, Mrs. G. W. Allen, of South Chicago, Ill., came up with the runaway at the post office at Williamsport Saturday. Allen, who is an ex-United States detective, since leaving home has been in nearly every state in the union east of the Mississippi. Saturday morning when Allen called at the post office he was detained until Mrs. Allen was summoned from a hotel near by. When Mrs. Allen spoke to her husband he said his mind had been a blank since leaving home. Of the $700 he had when he departed there is not a dollar left. Mrs. Allen spent $500 in her chase. Allen is a direct descendant of the famous Ethan Allen, colonel of the "Green Mountain Boys."

Jokes Drive a Guard Crazy.

Richmond, April 12.—As a result of a practical joke, Curtis Chamberlayne, a guard at the state prison here, has become a raving maniac.

Some of his aquaintances told him that if he let any of the prisoners escape, the superintendent of the penitentiary would put him in a dark cell on bread and water for a week, and then turn him over to Coloner Bigger, commandant of the Soldier's Home. It was then insinuated to him that Colonel Bigger would have him blown from the mouth of a cannon. He made a desperate resistance to-day while being taken to an asylum.

Pardon Asked for Gentry.

Harrisburg, April 12.—Application for pardon or commutation of sentence for James B. Gentry, the murderer of Madge York, was filed with the Board of Pardons this morning, the following reasons being assigned: Because the verdict was against the law and the evidence: because of the inability of the defendant to procure witnesses from foreign jurisdiction whose testimony would have reduced the grade of the offense to that of murder in the second degree; because of after discovered testimony relative to the condition of defendant's mind at the time of the commission of the offense.

Anxious for the Gallows.

Salt Lake, April 12.—The "Deseret News" prints what is claimed to be a confession by J. W. Fetzer, who is under arrest at Dillion, Mont., in which he says he killed Dr. C. H. Nichols, superintendent of the insane asylum at Washington, D. C., in 1873. He says he has 10 or 15 other victims, but will not plead guilty unless he can get a death sentence. Fetzer was arrested here last week for making dynamite booms and was turned over to the Montana authorities, charged with swindling the State,

A HAPPY WEDDING

Wm. W. McGee and Bertha F. Long United in Marriage.

AT HOWARD THIS AFTERNOON

The Home Was Beautifully Decorated With Choice Cut Flowers—Over a Hundred Guests Were Present.

A very delightful wedding took place this afternoon in the pretty little town of Howard, this county. The parties to this happy event were Mr. William W. McGee, of McGee's Mills, Clearfield county, and Miss Bertha Elizabeth Long, daughter of J. Z. Long, a wealthy retired lumberman, of Howard.

The handsome and commodious home of Mr. Long, where the wedding occurred, presented a bright and animated appearance. The interior was beautifully decorated with flowers, the work of the skilful hands of Miss Beth Stitzer, Miss Mame Mitchell and Miss Sarah Wistar. In the West corner of the parlor, where the ceremony took place, was a bank of flowers composed of palms and lillies. The room was also decorated with roses, carnations, holly and smilax, and the balance of the house throughout was adorned with potted plants and laurel.

There were over one hundred guests present—many from a distance—and as they entered the house they were very gracefully received by Miss Mame Mitchell and Miss Alice Long, friends of the bride.

At precisely 2:30 o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon the wedding party began their march to the music of the beautiful Loghengrin march, as played by Miss Elsie Long, a sister of the bride. The bride was dressed in white French mousseline, and carried in her hand a large bouquet of roses and white carnations. The groom looked very handsome and manly attired in conventional black. The usual custom of having a best man and bridesmaids was dispensed with, and they were attended only by Miss Rosetta Cooke as flower girl. She looked very pretty and was dressed in blue organdy, over white, and carried a bouquet of pink and yellow roses.

The ceremony which united this happy young couple in the holy bonds of wedlock was performed by Rev. William M. Long, of Pittsburg, a brother of the bride.

After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding dinner was served to the newly married couple and the invited guests. The table, besides being loaded down with all the good things the season affords, was beautifully decorated with roses and carnations, interspersed with smilax. Friends and relatives of the bride and groom acted as attendants at the table. They were Frank Holter, Clyde Long, Robert McGee, Oscar Lucas, Harry Mahaffey and Charles Woodward.

The bride is a beautiful and accomplished young lady, one who will make a fitting helpmate through life, and the groom is a wealthy young farmer of McGee's Mills, Clearfield county.

They were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents, mostly in silver and china. Followed by the best wishes and hearty congratulations of their many friends, they departed on the afternoon train for Pittsburg and other western cities.

The guests from a distance were, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Ball, of Altoona; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McKeague, of Lock Haven; W. P. Mahaffey, Miss Anna Knoll, Mrs. M. McGee and Mrs. T. J. Campbell, of McGee's Mills; R. F. McGee, of LaJose, Pa.; Miss Barbara Long, of Cedar Springs, Pa.; Mrs. Brown, of Walker, Pa.; Rev. and Mrs. Wm. M. Long, of Pittsburg, Pa.; Miss Jane McCalmont, Miss Annie Shortlidge, Miss Mary Devling, Mrs. E. S. Dorworth and daughter, Miss Alice, Mrs. Martin Reese and Mr. Harry Mahaffey, of Bellefonte.

Pushing the Road Bill.

A dispatch from Harrisburg says: A new element has come to the front in the legislative lobby at the State capitol. It is the bicyclist, and he has become a potent factor for good in shaping legislation. His efforts are directed through the League of American Wheelmen, whose greatest aim is to secure better roads. The league is pushing the Hamilton road bill and the indications are that it will become a law in spite of the farming interests. The bill has gone through the Senate by a vote of 41 to 6, and its most bitter foes concede that it will go through the House. The league is fighting the Spatz and Tipton bills, taxing bicycles $1 a year for road purposes. Both have been referred to a sub-committee of the ways and means committee.

The farmers are asking this legislature that a change be made in the system of distributing the public school appropriation, and that nothing be done with the law prohibiting the sale of oleo. Hundreds of petitions are on file in the house and senate favoring a change in the distribution of the school fund. The farmers claim the present system discriminates against them in favor of the more thickly populated districts. The farmers are divided on the Hammond bill fixing the minimum school term at seven months.

Bankers' Convention.

A branch of the State Bankers' Association will meet in Clearfield next Friday, April 16, at 11 a. m., in the Council chamber. This branch embraces the counties of Centre, Huntingdon, Cambria, Blair, Bedford and Clearfield, and the meeting will doubtless bring a large number of the prominent financiers of six counties to this place. The address of welcome will be made by Smith V. Wilson, Esq. An address will be made by Rev. David E. Craighead, of Curwensville. A paper on "Banking Lessons Furnished by the Panic," will be read by Thos. H. Murray, Esq. Congressman Arnold will give an address appropriate to the occasion. The bankers will give five minutes' talks on "Practical Banking."—Clearfield Monitor.

The Girls Will Marry.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., April 13.—Joseph Maus, who has operated a small mine in the Mahanoy Valley with the assistance of his three daughters for several years past, sold the operation to-day because the girls are about to get married and he will not undertake to carry on the work without their aid. The three girls acted respectively as engineer, breaker boss and mule driver, while Mr. Maus' smaller sons and daughters worked as slate pickers. This was the only mine in the anthracite coal regions that employed female labor.

Parrot Gave the Alarm.

Chicago, April 14.—A parrot gave an alarm of fire to-night, and saved much property from destruction. Mrs. Ritter lives in a flat on Wabash avenue. This evening a candle, which dropped in a closet, started a fire. Mrs. Ritter's parrot, which was in a cage in the kitchen, began to scream "fire, fire." Six policemen, who were passing, ran into the building and extinguished the blaze, the parrot meanwhile screaming, laughing and swearing.

Communion in Reformed Church.

The Holy Communion will be administered in St. John's Reformed church Easter morning, at the usual hour for divine services. Preparatory services will be held on Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Services on Good Friday at 10:30 a. m.

Flowers in Profusion.

The fine floral display of Miss May Barrett, in the window of the store room formerly occupied by W. T. Meyer, is admired by all passers by. There are many varieties of flowers in bloom, some of which are beautiful to behold. Lillies for Easter are there in abundance and at reasonable prices.

Our Story Teller.

Rose Pemberton's Test.

"Oh, Dear! I wish I could be a herone myself," pouted out Rose Pemberton, tossing aside the novel which she had just finished with a deep sign of discontent. "I'm pretty enough, I'm sure"—casting an appreciative glance at the mirror opposite, in which her piquant face and curling golden hair were pleasingly reflected—"but nothing ever happens—nothing ever will happen, either, so far as I can see—that has the least bit of romance in it. Just the same old humdrum life; I'm tired and sick of it. If something startling would only occur! If I could only fall desperately in love with some one—"

Here the low, discontented murmur of Rose's voice ceased, and a faint blush crept into her pretty cheeks as her thoughts drifted away toward a certain "some one" who had never formed a part of that humdrum life of which she had so bitterly complained.

Rose had numberless admirers, as the prettiest girl in the village always will have, and she could recall an almost equal number of flirtations which had served to brighten the monotony of her village life.

But they were tame affairs; her heart had never been really interested for a moment.

As for the grand passion Rose knew nothing of it save in her day dreams and in the pages of her favorite novels.

She had laughed at her would-be lovers, and declared her conviction that there is no such thing as love in real life.

But of late pretty Rose had secretly begun to entertain a somewhat different opinion on that subject.

A handsome, intellectual face and a pair of laughing brown eyes were the direct cause of her change of heart.

Yet their owner seemed in no haste to enroll on the list of her admirers. Indeed, Rose knew him only by sight, Wibur Severance was a stranger in the village; she had seen him in church two or three times, and occasionally on the street; but he had never sought an introduction to the belle of the place, and, beyond a passing glance of admiration, had not evidenced any special notice of her attractions.

Perhaps that was the very thing which had awakened Rose's interest in him. At all events, she often caught herself dreaming of those handsome brown eyes, and wondering what she should say if Mr. Severance were ever to tell her the story of love which she had often heard from other lips.

But there was little danger of that, apparently. Rose bit her lip in chagrin as that thought forced itself upon her, even while she was contemplating her graceful image in the mirror; and, catching up her wide-brimmed garden hat, she suddenly quit the room and the house, and went hurrying down the path with a kind of desperate determination in her heart to get away from the dullness of every day existence and wring an adventure of some sort from the unwilling hands of Fate.

"I'll go down to the river," she said, after a moment of indecision at the gate, "and if I can find a boat, I'll row about in the most dangerous places I can find. And I hope something will happen; but it won't," she added sarcastically, "unless I upset the boat on purpose."

Turning into the winding road that led out of the village, she soon came to the river and found a fragile shell of a boat dancing at anchor on the waves, as if left there by fate for her especial use.

Rose unfastened the chain and was soon shooting swiftly down the stream, keeping time with her oars to her own restless thoughts.

All at once a sound, breaking the stillness of the scene, drew her attention to the shore, and with that glance Rose's heart gave a mad bound, and then seemed to stop beating, for there on the bank, only a few feet distant, busily arranging a pile of fishing tackle, sat the hero of her present thoughts—the handsome stranger with the laughing brow eyes.

And they were quietly laughing at her now, Rose thought, as a blush of confusion dyed her cheeks.

The sudden start she gave jostled one of the oars out of her grasp, and, reaching to recover it, the "something" which she had so recklessly wished for happened; for the next instant, to her disgust, she found herself overboard, and floundering about in the water, looking as little like her ideal heroine as could well be imagined.

Mr. Severance hastened at once to her rescue, and when he had brought her, pale and exhausted, to the shore, Rose, glancing shyly upward, saw those brown eyes, no longer laughing at her, but full of a grave anxiety that thrilled her heart.

"I am not at all injured," she said, replying to that look, "and I hope my boat isn't, for I must try my luck with it again by starting home at once.

"But your strength is quite exhausted," he said, decidedly, as she rose slowly to her feet. "I shall row you back to the point from which you started, and then, if you will permit me, I shall accompany you to your home. I really think it unsafe for you to go alone," he added, seeing the tide of crimson that swept back suddenly to her white cheeks.

Rose offered but faint objections; and thus began the acquaintance which was destined to prove so eventful to both.

And Rose was happy.

It was just in the flush of her happiness that Rose met at a villlage hotel, whose landlady's daughter was one of her friends, a lady who had come there hoping to regain her lost health.

Pale and delicate, but still very lovely, was Caryl Stewart, and very soon she and the village belle were fast friends.

"My physicians say that my ailment is consumption," said Caryl Stewart one day, smiling a slow, sad smile that went straight to Rose's heart; "but I know better than they, Rose. I know that I am dying of a broken heart. You will come in again to-morrow?" she questioned, lifting her dark eyes with a wistful look.

'Oy, yes," returned Rose, with a bright smile. "I will come in any day—every day, Miss Stewart."

She was thinking of that conversation when Wilbur Severance came to see her late in the evening.

But she could not remain melancholy long in his presence now, particularly as he had come for the express purpose of asking for her heart and hand.

Rose had often pictured this moment to herself, and she had honesty resolved to be all sweetness and sincerity to this man whom she loved with all her soul.

But—how it was she could never tell—somehow her old wilful spirit of coquetry seemed to take possession of her all in a moment, and she laughed, teased and evaded her lover's questioning with a persistent wilfulness that amazed her self.

"I will answer you to-morrow evening," was the reply he finally coaxed from her saucy lips. "I must have a little time to reflect upon so dreadfully serious a matter, Mr. Severance."

But there was that in the happy, laughing blue eyes that belied the wilful lips, and Wilbur Severance went away with a cheerful heart in spite of all.

The following day Rose paid her promised visit to Miss Stewart, and it was then that the invalid made her a confidante.

Caryl Stewart had been betrothed, when scarcely more than a child, to a youth but little older than herself.

The arrangements had been made entirely by the parents of the two.

But as they grew older, with a better understanding of the situation, Caryl realized that her whole heart was involved in the matter, while her fiance proved indifferent, and finally rebelled outright against the bonds which he had no part in creating.

In her pride Caryl had granted him his freedom, though she broke her own heart by doing it.

Other suitors she had had, but she would never love again to her dying day.

"And that will not be far off," she ended, pathetically, "unless I can win his love. And I don't quite despair of doing that yet, Rose. Away from all rivals, and free from the business-like fetters that once prejudiced him against me more than all, when he realizes, at last, that his love, and only that can save my life—do you think, dear little Rose, that my hope of yet winning him is such a wild one, after all?"

"No, indeed, I do not, Miss Stewart," she earnestly replied. "I don't think he could help but learn to love you, did he know all the truth. If he could be here to see you—"

"He is here, and I have met him several times, though he doesn't know the mad hope that brought me here—as yet. I have merely told him that I came here for my health. I think you know him also, Rose," she added, slowly, watching the girl's face from beneath her long, dark, lashes. "His name is Wilbur Severance."

"Wilbur Severance!"

One moment Rose's little hand was pressed tightly over her heart, and her very breathing seemed to cease.

Then she spoke almost in her usual steady tones.

"Yes, I know Mr. Severance; we are quite good friends," she said. "And I think he will come back to you yet, Misa Stewart; indeed I am—almost sure he will."

And rising quickly she murmured a few parting words, then touching her cold lips lightly to Caryl Stewart's brow, hastened from the room.

"Oh, why didn't I tell him 'Yes' at once last night, when I loved him so!" cried Rose, in anguish of heart, as she hurried home. "Then it would all have been settled, and nothing could have changed it, but now—"

Her resolve was already taken; and when Wilbur called that night she gave him his answer promptly enough. It was "No."

"You cannot mean, Rose, that you have deliberately intended to deceive me?" he cried. "Surely no woman under heaven could have a heart so hard and false as that! Do not trifle this time, Rose. Whatever your answer is now, it must be your final one."

"It is final," she answered, steadily. "I shall reget the loss of your friendship, but I can never be your wife, Mr. Severance. That is my deliberate final answer."

"And I hurled back the lie in the teeth of all those who tried to warn me against you for what you are—a soulless coquette." he said, with a bitter laugh. "I might have saved my happiness, but I would not, and well, I deserve my fate for being such a fool."

He turned on his heel to go, but Rose stepped quietly in front of him.

She held a small basket of fruit and flowers in her hand.

"I should like to ask you to do me one little favor," she said, coldly, not seeming to have noticed his bitter words. "I have a friend at the hotel, which you will pass as you go home. She is ill—very ill, indeed, and I wish to send her these. I promised, but as I could not go myself, I must ask you to take them for me—and this note," she added offering it. "Don't refuse, please, she will be so disappointed. And if you will kindly take them up to her parlor yourself—I never trust these things to the careless servants there. It is the only service I shall ask of you," she added, with half a pleading little smile as she saw him hesitate.

Of course he had no choice but to accept the trifling task, and, with a cold, distant bow, he took both basket and note from her hand and went his way.

And when the door had closed behind him, Rose sank back into her chair and sobbed until her heart was ready to burst.

"I have sent him to her, and surely she can find some way to win him back again," she moaned, as she thought of the desolation she had brought upon her own happiness.

How long she sat there weeping Rose never knew. But ages after, so it seemed, a step sounded beside her, and Wilbur's own voice was tenderly calling her name.

"Look up, my Rose, and let me tell you what has happened," he was saying sadly, yet with a deep undertone of joy in his loving voice. "I executed your errand, and before I could leave, Caryl, in some way, made me understand the state of her feelings toward me. You know the whole story, Rose, so I need not repeat it. Then, in my pity for her, and my bitter anger toward you, I was weak enough to offer to renew that old engagement. I need not tell you that she eagerly accepted, and then, in her joy or the agitation of the moment, she fell to coughing severely, and ruptured a blood vessel. Yes—" in answer to Rose's horrified cry—"she is dead now, my, darling, but not before she had made me understand the sacrifice you tried to make for her. She knew that you loved me, Rose. And now I shall not ask you for that answer, dear; I shall take it thus;" and he kissed her quivering lips. "My love—my heroine!" he added, proudly.

Rose had never once thought of it in that light; but no one now ever hears from her sweet lips that old-time, foolish wish:

"Oh, if I could be a heroine!"

Death of Capt. James A. Leyden.

The many friends and relatives of Captain James A. Leyden were very much shocked when word reached here Saturday night of his death at Ft. Sheridan, Ill., that afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, from pneumonia. He was buried by his regiment, with military honors, in the cemetery attached to the military post, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Captain Leyden was a son of Daniel Leyden, and his mother was Louise Alexander Leyden, a sister of the late Senator Cyrus T. Alexander. He was born in Kentucky on the 12th of May, 1857, while his father was engaged in the iron business in that state At the outbreak of the civil war his parents returned to this county and located here. He received his education in the public schools of this place and at the Bellefonte Academy.

In June, 1875, he was appointed a cadet at West Point from this Congressional district. He graduated in 1879, and was immediately sent to the frontier, where his company took part in the suppression of the White River insurrection among the Indians, during which the Meeker family were massacred. He was appointed chief engineer of his regiment and served a number of special appointments, among which was a detail for three years in command of the cadets at State College, and a year and a half on Gov. Beaver's staff. While on the Governor's staff he constructed the rifle range at Mt. Gretna. For five years he was chief instructor of the N. G. P.

In 1888, after a year spent in travel in Europe, he returned to his post at Ft. Sheridan, and spent the next two years in making a topographical survey of a large section of that country.

He was much interested in working up a history of the Leyden and Alexander families, which he no doubt leaves uncompleted.

Deceased leaves a wife and two children. His wife's maiden name was Hattie I. Foster, and she is a daughter of John S. Foster, of State College.

His brother, E. G. Leyden, of Beech Creek, and his brother in-law, Philip D. Foster, of State College, left for Chicago on the morning train to attend the funeral.

Peruvian Bitters.

LaFayette, Ind., August 6, 1893.
Aunt Rachael Speer:

I have been using your Peruvian Bitters of late for malarial fever that I have not been entirely rid of for the past two years until now. I must say your Bitters beat everything. I used it only six weeks and began to improve the first week. I am now well and hearty and feel young again, even now in this very hot weather.

Wonderful Enterprise.

Ever since the disastrous fire which destroyed the Electric Light plant early Wednesday morning, the streets of our town have been in darkness and the citizens put to great inconvenience. With commendable enterprise the Electric Light company promised Saturday night, not only the streets, but private residences and business places, will be supplied with the much needed light.

Before the fire had entirely died out a meeting of the directors was called and the president was instructed to go ahead and lose no time in rebuilding.

Since then they have kept from twenty-five to forty men employed night and day. They secured an engine from the Altoona Electric Light company, which arrived here Thursday night; on Friday they received a 60-light arch machine and two incandescent dynamos from Philadelphia, and on Saturday afternoon they received some belting and a switchboard, which enabled them to furnish light on Saturday evening.

Met With a Serious Accident.

A very serious accident occurred at the Electric Light station Saturday afternoon, shortly after 2 o'clock. While the men were placing one of the heavy dynamos in position it fell on Mr. H. P. Loring, an electrician superintending the work, breaking his left leg below the knee and badly bruising him about the body.

He was taken to the Bush House and Drs. Harris and Dobbins called in to attend him. At first it was feared his leg would have to be amputated, but on examination it was found that the injuries were as stated above.

Mr. Loring is a young man abou 35, his home being in Philadelphia where he holds a responsible position in the general office of the Edison Electrical company.

Wedding Bells at Lamar.

Wedding bells pealed their merry chimes at Lamar Thursday evening, April 8th. The guests to the happy event assembled at the residence of H. A. Loveland. The contracting parties were Dr. Scott M. Huff and Miss Nannie B. Loveland. The officiating clergyman was Rev. W. C. Robbins, of Salona. The invitations called only for a few guests and the whole affair was conducted without ostentation. A supper followed the ceremony, after which the newly married couple left on an eastern bridal trip. The bride is one of the popular young ladies of Lamar and the groom is a physician who is making rapid strides in his profession.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Will Get a Small Fortune.

By the death of a rich relative in Lancaster county many years ago, who left a fortune of $200,000 to a nephew, who died recently, a small fortune under the conditions of the will of the elder gentleman, two young ladies of Centre county near Centre Hall, fall heir to $5,000 each. They are marketable girls and there will now be no lack of earnest lovers among the young farmers of the fertile Penn's Valley.

Easter Services.

All the churches in town are preparing appropriate services for Easter Sunday. At the Presbyterian there will be a special Easter services in the evening under the direction of W. T. Meyer. The members of the Episcopalian choir have been working for weeks, preparing for this event, under the capable direction of their organist, Mr. Reeves. Their service Easter Sunday will be almost entirely a song service. They also prepared some beatiful music which they rendered on Sunday evening.

Checks and Thief Missing.

Clearfield, Pa., April 9.—The Beech Creek railroad station at this place was robbed at noon to-day. The official in charge left for a few minutes and when he came back he found a check for $35 and $4.41 in cash missing and no trace of the thief.

—In writing up the account of the colored concert, we forgot to mention, Miss Kate Miller, who was one of the chief promoters of the affair. She not only worked hard to make it a success, but sang very sweetly, and recited several pieces effectively, receiving hearty encores every me.

Colored Concert Thursday Night.

The grand concert given by colored home talent in Garman's Opera House, Thursday night, was a very creditable performance in every particular. In spite of the inclemency of the weather there was a fair sized and very appreciative audience present.

The program rendered was a long and varied one. It abounded in both vocal and instrumental solos and duets, old fashioned plantation melodies, recitations, etc.

The Greek drill, by twelve ladies dressed in white, was very good, but probably the biggest hit of the evening was the campmeeting scene, with our friend Manny Green as the parson.

We would like to publish the program in full, but space will not permit. Suffice it to say, that each and every one acquitted themselves well and many received hearty encores. We think, though, special mention should be made of the singing of Misa Lida Moore, Miss Maud Pennington, Miss Carrie Mills, Miss Nettie Palmer and Mr. Wm. Mills, Jr., also of the piano playing of Mr. W. W. Williams, of Altoona.

The entertainment was for the benefit of the pastor of the A. M. E. church, and we understand quite a handsome sum was realized.

Fish and Game Laws.

The open season for fishing in Pennsylvania is as follows: Speckled trout, April 15 to July 15; sea salmon, April 1 to July 31; black bass, rock bass and wall-eyed pike, commonly known as Susquehanna salmon, May 30 to January 1; lake trout, January 1 to October 1; pike and pickerel, June 1 to February 1; shad and herring, January 1 to June 20; Penobscot salmon, March 1 to August 15.

No person shall cast, draw, fasten or otherwise make use of any seine, drift net or nets of any other description, or use any other appliance for the catching of fish except rod, hook and line, in any rivers, streams or waters of this commonwealth.

No person shall kill, sell or have in possession after being killed any speckled trout save only from April 15th to July 15, under penalty of $10 for each fish. No person shall take for sale any trout less than five inches long, or fish in any waters for three years in which brook trout have been planted by the fish commissioners when public notice of said planting has been given under $20 penalty.

There shall be no shooting, hunting or fishing on Sunday, under penalty of $25.

The Iowa Is Home.

Philadelphia, April 9.—The big battleship Iowa, which made a record for herself and $200,000 premium for her builders, Messrs. Cramp & Son, in her official trial trip off the New England coast on Wednesday, rounded the Delaware capes early this evening, and at 8 o'clock anchored at Brown Shoal, five miles up the bay, Upon a favorable tide to-morrow morning she will weigh anchor and steam up to her pier at Cramps ship yard. A broom at her main truck and the huge white figures "17.41" freshly painted on her smoke-stack tell the story of her achievement. The Iowa left Boston yesterday.

The Golden Star Gold Mining Co.,

OF MONTANA.

Owning 3 great and rich gold mines offers a small portion of its shares to the investing public at a very low price. The capitalization is very small. Several thousands of dollars have already been expended and over 600 feet of underground work is done on the property, which is rich in gold, copper and some silver. These shares now obtainable at a very low price are the best investment on the financial market to-day and ought to pay at least 10c per share per month dividends in the near future. Scrofula

Face Broke Out With Sores—Weak and Sickly Until Hood's Sarsaparilla Made Him Well.

"My little son was afflicted with scrofula sores and he was weak and sickly. Our physician recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla and I bought a bottle. Before he had taken all of this bottle his face began to break out with sores and one side of his face was nearly all one solid sore. I continued giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla until he had taken two bottles. The sores were then healed and he has been well and hearty ever since." Z. W. SMITH, Big Shanty, Pennsylvania.

"Everything I ate seemed to produce gas in my stomach. I was growing worse and friends advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. When I had taken four bottles I was able to eat and feel no distress. I could attend to my household duties without the fatigue I formerly felt." ADA MCVICKAR, White Hall, Pa.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 12, 1897.

President McKinley returned from his little outing much improved. The weather was more or less disagreeable during the entire time he spent on the Dolphin, but he got what he went after and what he needed most—rest. He was at his desk to-day looking fresher than for several weeks.

Jerry Simpson made an attempt to prove that he was a bigger man than the entire House, but he only proved himself a monkey. He thought, or rather he thought that he thought, that he could compel Speaker Reed to appoint the committees and the House to go ahead with miscellaneous business, although a majority had decided that the legislation of the extra session should be confined to passing the left-over appropriation bills and the tariff bill, both of which the House has done. Jerry has made the point of "no quorum" to prevent the House adjourning from Saturday to Wednesday, but Speaker Reed had no difficulty in counting a quorum, and Jerry found himself down while the House adjourned. Whether he intends to get himself knocked down every time the House meets just for the notoriety there is in it, is yet to be seen. It is evident that Speaker Reed regards Jerry merely as an "amusing little cuss."

Secretary Alger, under whose direction the $200,000 appropriated last week by Congress for the relief of sufferers by floods in the Mississippi Valley will be spent, lost no time in putting the machinery of the War Department to work in order that prompt relief might be extended, wherever needed. It may be a hard thing to say, but it is strictly true that the Cleveland administration was responsible for much of the damage done by the Mississippi floods, by its policy of delay in spending money appropriated by Congress to strengthen and raise up the levees along the Mississippi river at those points where United States engineer officers had reported the necessity of such work. Reports are on file in the War Department from engineer officers, made after Congress had appropriated the money, urging that contracts be made and the work rushed on these levees, but it was the Cleveland-Carlisle policy to hold back appropriations as long as possible, and these floods came before the strengthening of the levees had been completed. A number of the breaks are at the points reported weak by the engineers and ordered to be strengthened by Congress. For all the damage done by these particular breaks, the Cleveland administration is clearly responsible.

President McKinley's announced policy of reinstating all ex-Union soldiers who were dismissed from office by the Democrats for no other reason than their politics, is being carried out in all of the government departments as fast as the heads of the departments can get around to the cases. In the cases of the chiefs of divisions, the Democrats are being given better treatment than they gave Republicans. They are allowed to remain in office, in a lower position, instead of being dismissed, as so many Republicans were under the last administration.

A Republican Senator speaking of the talk in regard to the appointment of Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, to be Assistant Secretary of the Navy, being likely to make trouble, said: "Roosevelt may make trouble in the Navy Department, but if he does it will be in the interests of a better administration of its affairs, just as he has made trouble for the law breakers of New York city who had long enjoyed police protection. I notice that in all the trouble stirred up by Roosevelt, he has always had the support of those who believed in showing up and reforming wrong-doing wherever found, and I am willing to stand behind all the trouble he makes in the Navy Department."

Mr. Cleveland's order reducing the number of Pension agencies, which was to go into effect on the 1st of next September, will never go into effect. Pension Commissioner Evans has ascertained by investigation that instead of saving money, as Mr. Cleveland claimed, it would cost more to support the consolidated agencies. He said on the subject: "While I have no authority to speak for the President, I have excellent reasons for believing that the order will not go into effect, and that the eighteen pension agencies will remain as they are." Commissioner Evans also says that Mr. Cleveland's order placing Pension surgeons under the civil service rules will be revoked, except in the cases of examiners who receive $300 a year or less.

No date has yet been fixed for the reporting of the Dingley tariff bill to the Senate by the Finance committee.

REASONS FOR USING

Walter Baker & Co.'s

Breakfast Cocoa.

1. Because it is absolutely pure.
2. Because it is not made by the so-called Dutch Process in which chemicals are used.
3. Because beans of the finest quality are used.
4. Because it is made by a method which preserves unimpaired the exquisite natural flavor and odor of the beans.
5. Because it is the most economical, costing less than one cent a cup.

Women's Wages.

CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT, NEW YOR .

For some time the New York Legislature has been considering the Charter of the Greater New York

This charter is the production of a commission of gentlemen appointed for the purpose and called the Charter Commission. After it left their hands, it must perforce be ratified by the Legislature, which also has the power to amend it. For some time the Legislature has been kept busy with hearings and memorials presented by those not satisfied with its provisions. Among the most interesting of all the petitions presented is one from the New York City School Teachers, under the heading of "The Plain Statement about the Salaries of the Women Teachers in New York City." Among other things it said:

There are in the City of New York 4000 teachers and 256 principals of schools. Of these, only 300 are men. They are the most poorly paid employes of our city government, this in spite of the fact that they are educated women upon whom is imposed the sacred trust of properly instructing the youth of our great city.

To sum up, there are in our schools to-day 1347 teachers who receive less than the poorest paid elevator boy in the city service ($600) 2118 teachers who receive less than the street-sweeper ($720), ($780) and not one of the 4000 women teachers receives as much as the stable foreman of the street-cleaning department. Not one of the women principals receives as much as is paid to the police sergeants or to the foreman of a hook and ladder company.

Under these circumstances, the teachers of New York, the metropolis of America, do not feel that they are asking too much when they petition the Legislature to enact a law that no teacher should be paid a less sum than $600 a year, nor shall any teacher after ten years' experience receive less than $800, and that the salaries of the women principals shall be increased by the addition of $250 each year until they have reached the limit, $2500.

Relics of Old Hickory Burned.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 12.—Fire to-day greatly damaged the dwelling in Clifton occupied by James Jackson, a relative of President Andrew Jackson and an inheritor of the deceased President. Among them was Gen. Jackson's carriage, the wheels of which were made from timber taken from the old war frigate Constitution. This carriage was stored in the garret and was nearly destroyed, along with some other relics in the shape of furniture.

The entire lot of relics was valued at $30,000, but a portion had been recently shipped to Washington, thus escaping damage or destruction.

FLOODS RECEDING.

A Silver Lining to the Cloud That Has Hovered Over the Mississippi Valley.

Memphis, Tenn., April 14.—The water in the Mississippi Delta is receding slowly. Reports received here from the overflowed country are most encouraging. The day has been an ideal one, and every planter in the Delta is in better spirits.

At Greenville, the river as well as the backwater surrounding the town, is stationary to-night. Everything is in readiness for the receipt and distribution of provisions from the Government, and as soon as the army officers arrive the work will be entered into actively.

At Lulu, Miss., a decided improvement is noted. There is still some suffering in the back country, but it is beng alleviated by the planters, and to-day a representative of the Government arrived and will assist the destitute at once.

The Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railroad has been busy all day with pile drivers replacing washouts and bridges. The road probably will have trains running into Lulu and Clarksdale on Tuesday.

It is now believed the water will disappear by May 1, and if this proves true a fair crop can be made. The overflow will leave a sediment or deposit which greatly enriches the soil, and the planters yet may be able to balance their big account with the Father of Waters.

HELD UP A YONKERS BANK.

Thieves Got $4,400 by a Daring Midday Raid.

The Yonkers Savings Bank, the richest banking institution in Westchester County, was robbed of $1,400 Monday by three clever and daring thieves. It took the men, from beginning to end, just about fifteen minutes to do the work. Then they escaped, and the chance of their being captured is small, as the only person who saw them is unable to give descriptions which will be of much value to the police. The thieves timed their attack well. They robbed the bank in the only way that it was possible to rob it—through the front door and in the middle of the day. No bank in the state is better equipped against cracksmen and general thieves. It would have been absolutely impossible to rob the bank at any other time of the day or in any other way. As it was, the thieves, although they took the money from under the very nose of the cashier, Lyman Cobb, Jr., came very near getting away without detection. It was only when the outside man, whose plausible talk held the attention of Mr. Cobb, while his pal rifled the drawer, ran short of interesting topics that the cashier turned and discovered what had been going on behind him. A cocked pistol stuck up under his nose and a warning that the least sound, the least move meant his life, gave the thieves the moment they required to get safely away.

THE HUSBAND CUT OFF

Mrs. Miller Left Mr. Miller One Cent to be Paid Five Years Hence.

A curious will was filed with the Register of Wills in Wilkesbarre last week. It bore the signature of Mrs. Anna Miller. Among its provisions was one bequeathing to her husband, John Miller, the sum of one cent, to be paid him five years after her death. All the rest of her estate, including her policy in a life insurance company, is left to Mary Morrell, whom Mrs. Miller said, was very kind to her in her illness. Mrs. Miller, it is said, held that her husband lived for himself, did not help her in any way to accumulate any property, and therefore he was not entitled to participate in the distribution of her property. The husband will not contest the will.

QUEER CASE AGAINST A RAILROAD.

Central to be Sued for Removing the West Shore Shops from Frankfort.

Utica, N. Y., April 14.—Frankfort Committees appointed several weeks ago to protest against the removal of the West Shore Railroad shops from the village of Frankfort, secured copies of the papers involved in the building of the shops and the lease of the West Shore to the New York Central, and asked for written opinions from eminent lawyers. The consensus of opinion of the lawyers is that the New York Central had no legal right to remove the shops. Upon the committees' report the citizens of the village unanimously voted to bring legal action against the New York Central.

A Palace of the Pharaohs Found.

Boston, April 14.—The Rev. Alfred P. Putnam, D. D., president of the Danvers Historical Society, has received a letter, dated March 26, from F. Petrie, honorary secretary of the Victoria Institute, England, in which he says;

"It will interest you to hear that one of the Institute members writes home from Upper Egypt to announce his discovery of a palace of a Pharaoh of the Sixth Dynasty, with numerous valuable inscriptions. The wine jars of the Pharaoh were found intact in a large cellar. All were hermetically sealed, but on breaking the seal of one the wine seemed petrified."

The Knoxville Fire.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 14.—Of the fifty-two guests who were sleeping in the Hotel Knox when the recent fire broke out only thirty-five have been accounted for. The hotel register was destroyed, and it will perhaps never be known how many lives were lost. Among those known to have perished in the flames are: A. S. Weeks, of Locke, N. Y., drummer; E. A. Williams, Springfield, Mass., retired merchant.

M'KINLEY TO SPAIN.

PROFFERS THE FRIENDLY OFFICES OF THE U. S. IN CUBAN AFFAIRS.

Simpson has a Tilt with Dingley in the House—The Armor Plate Combine Liable to Bleed the Government—Weyler's Emissary at the Capital.

Aside from the matter of committee reorganization, there are four important questions before the United States Senate. These are the Morgan Cuban resolution, the Bankruptcy bill, the Anglo-American Arbitration Treaty and the appropriation bills. Chairman Davis, of the Foreign Relations Committee, refuses to make any prediction as to the result of the final vote on the Arbitration Treaty or when that vote will be reached. If the Democrats do not object, on account of the incomplete condition of the committees, the Sundry Civil and Indian Appropriation bills will probably be acted upon during the week.

The House will continue the programme of three-day adjournments this week. A bill was introduced on Saturday for the admission of Oklahoma and the Indian Territory as one State.

In Need of Armor Plates.

The Secretary of the Navy has referred to Congress all the papers relating to the armor plate bids. The Secretary says that the three battle ships, for whose armor proposals were asked, are under construction, and that delay in getting the armor may subject the Government to great expense. He recommends that authority be given to readvertise for proposals, and to make contracts for armor at not exceeding $400 per ton.

Simpson Wants Committees Appointed.

Representative Simpson does not succeed in seriously interfering with the settled programme of the majority of the House, but his notification of a purpose to exercise his right to insist upon the presence of a quorum and his protest against the policy of the Speaker not to appoint the standing committees, is not entirely without result. Mr. Dingley stated, in response to inquiries from Mr. Bailey and Mr. Simpson, that Congress had been convened in extraordinary session for the distinct purpose of revising the tariff so as to secure additional revenue to meet the necessities of the Government. The House had already passed a tariff bill. There were certain Appropriation bills which had failed at the last session. These had also been passed by the House, and it was expected that in a few days they would be returned from the Senate. "At present," continued Mr. Dingley, "so far as I can see, that seems to be the only business of importance that is likely to come before the House until the Revenue bill, which we sent to the Senate, shall be returned to us. No committee, outside of the Committee on Ways and Means, can report any bill, simply from the fact that no other committee charged with legislative business has been appointed. Therefore I am frank to say that to-day there does not seem to be within sight any further business than the completion of the Appropriation bills, and especially the final passage of a bill to provide adequate revenue to carry on this Government."

A Dunkirk Lawyer as 3d Assistant P.M.G.

Lester F. Sterns, of Dunkirk, N. Y., has decided to accept the offer of the Third Assistant Postmaster Generalship. Mr. Stearns is a lawyer of Dunkirk. He belongs to the New York republican organization, and is a warm friend of both Senator Platt and Representative Hooker. He was a McKinley delegate to the St. Louis Convention.

Major Juan Sandoval, the emissary sent by General Weyler to the Spanish Minister here, is in Washington. His mission is said to be similar to that of a number of other Spanish officials who have come to Washington within the past year to bear reports on current events in Cuba. Minister De Lome says there is no significance attached to the visit, and that there is nothing in it in which the public is interested.

CASTORIA.

Raines Bill in New York

Senator Raines and the other Republican leaders in the Senate at Albany got into the worst kind of a tangle in endeavoring to carry out their program to put through the Raines law amendments without delay. The ruction began just as soon as the Senate was called to order at 8:30, and Senators Cantor and McCarren succeeded in keeping Raines and his colleagues involved in parliamentary intricacies for exactly three hours.

The vote, taken at 2:20 Tuesday morning, stood 32 to 15, Wieman of Brooklyn and Lamy of Buffalo being the only Republicans who bolted.

The President Appoints Democrats.

The President Monday announced the following appointment of commissioners "for the promotion of an international agreement for bimetallism:" Senator Edward O. Wolcott, of Colorado: Hon. Charles J. Paine, of Boston, and ex-Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson.

It was reported in Washington that Assistant United States Treasurer Jordan, at New York, whose term of office will expire in a few days, will be reappointed by President McKinley. Mr. Jordan is a Gold Democrat.

Garcia Offers to Exchange Generals.

A report from Santiago de Cuba says that Gen. Calixto Garcia has captured near Manzanillo the Spanish General Aldave, and that the insurgents are willing to exchange him for Gen. Ruis Rivera. Though the report is denied here by the authorities a long dispatch about it has been sent to Gen. Weyler.

THE GRANT MEMORIAL.

Spain, With Other Nations, Will Send Battle Ships.

At the time of the Grant funeral Grover Cleveland was serving his first term as President, and he took official part in the demonstration. Ex-Presidents Hayes and Arthur also attended. When the corner-stone of the tomb was laid Harrison as President took the chief part in the services. It happened that Cleveland's second term came between that event and the dedication of the tomb, so that he will take part in the approaching exercises as an ex-President. He has accepted the city's invitation to be present. Four Governments have officially accepted the invitation to participate in the celebration, and two have been heard from unofficially. China has ordered its Minister in Washington to attend the ceremonies and represent her at the celebration. The five Governments which will send ships are Great Britain, France, Spain, Italy and Mexico. Germany cabled her declination on the ground that she had no warships available. China and Japan declined on account of the lack of time and the distance. Chili and Argentine declined on similar grounds.

NEW YORK'S CAPITOL.

The Life Lease of Architect Perry Likely to be Abrogated.

Albany, N. Y., April 14, 1897.—Superintendent of Public Works, George W. Aldridge, is charged with the completion of the State Capitol, it having been taken out of the hands of the commission by Gov. Black. Mr. Aldridge has already discovered grave defects in the plans for the completion of the buildings as prepared by Architect Perry, who has been in actual charge of the work for a number of years.

Superintendent Aldridge has, as a result, selected for consulting architect Mr. James G. Cutler, of Rochester. Hereafter no plans will be proceeded with until after they have been submitted to and approved by Mr. Cutler. Mr. Cutler has already announced his intention of radically revising the plans as prepared by Mr. Perry.

$1,000,000 LIFE INSURANCE.

Mrs. Stanford Gets It in One Policy with $170,000 Annual Premium.

San Francisco, April 9.—The largest life insurance policy ever written by one company was signed to-day by Mrs. Jane Stanford, widow of the railroad millionaire. It is for $1,000,000 to Leland Stanford University if Mrs. Stanford dies within ten years. If she lives beyond ten years, the company will pay $2,000,000 on her death. The annual premium is $170,000. As Mrs. Stanford will be 72 years old next August, it is a rather risky venture for the insurance company, as it will require five annual payments to guarantee the company against loss.

Bellefonte Mothers Keep Them; but With a Little Light, Their Need Be None.

How carefully mothers guard the secrets of their boys and girls, At night as she carefully tucks the bed clothes around them she chides and warns that mother will be angry if they repeat last night's offense, softly saying to herself its only a habit, but I must break them of it. This is a mother's mistake. And children can not help it, and sweet, clean, dry beds can be the resting place of every child when it is understood that the cause is not a habit, but a weakness, that can be cured. Active life of the little ones tends to weaken the kidneys, and weak kidneys mean inability to retain urine. This is a condition not a habit, and should have the same attention you would give to the symptoms of any disease. One of Doan's Kidney Pills taken twice a day and at bedtime will strengthen the kidneys of a child, and in a short time there will be no cause to scold, for the so called habit will disappear promptly.

Here's a greatful mother that adds her indorsement to our words.

Mrs. W. E. Bryerton 101 Fourth street says; "My daughter 8 years old had at the age of four, a severe attack of measles. When she recovered, she was left with weak kidneys and the trouble developed into a urinary difficulty. We doctored for it, but made little or no headway. Last fall, she with other children, had the typhoid fever. It aggravated it and she complained of her back aching and continually feeling tired. She had little or no control, of the urine while sleeping, in spite of all that the doctors and I could do. It struck me if Doan's Kidney Pills were good for this distressing complaint in adults, they should be for children, and I procured a box. They improved her condition from the start and finally did more for her than all I ever did as well as the doctor. The trouble is gone. Before using the old Quaker remedy, she could not go to Sabbath School. Now I am thankful to say she can go anywhere."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents or the U. S.

Monticello Not for Sale.

Washington, April 14.—W. J. Bryan has received a letter from Jefferson Levy, owner of Monticello, Jefferson's old home, saying that he does not desire to part with the place. CATARRHAL DYSPEPSIA.

Pe-ru-na Not Only Cures, But Cures Permanently.

Hortons, Pa., April, 1893.—Dr. S. B. Hartman—Dear Sir: I had tried three of the best physicians in Indiana county, and had spent a great deal of money, all to no effect. My friends said I could not get well. I had about given up all earthly hopes. I weighed 130 pounds. I accidentally saw the name Pe-ru-na. I immediately commenced taking it, and continued taking it until I had taken twelve bottles. I then weighed 180 pounds, and never felt better in my life. I am a walking monument of the virtues of your Pe-ru-na.

THREE LIVES SACRIFICED

The Murders Committed By a Man Thought to Be Crazy.

HE WAS LAUGHING OVER THEM

A Crime Which Was Committed By a Bachelor Who Appears to Glory in His Weak Mind Over His Act.

Pascoag, R. I., April 14.—Three lives were sacrificed to the passion of a murderous maniac at the village of Oakland, near here, this morning. Edward Reynolds, a carpenter, his wife and their 21-year old daughter were brutally killed and the building in which the bodies lay was fired and burned to the ground. The incinerated corpses, battered and gaped from the blows of the murderer, were found in the ruins.

There was little doubt that the fiendish crime was committed by Martin Mowry, who has been employed as a workman by Reynolds. Mowry was afterwards discovered in a neighboring barn, doubled up in a corner, giggling and laughing in maniacal glee. He was placed under arrest by a posse and his appearance and manner of expression, together with his willingness to talk, left no doubt of his insanity. Mowry is a bachelor, about 65 years old.

Fire was discovered in the Reynolds house at about 3 o'clock this morning. The building was securely fastened, with every window closed tightly and the doors locked and bolted, so that neighbors who went to the rescue were compelled to burst open the door to gain entrance From what they saw within it was clear that the house had been saturated with kerosene, and the flames spread with great rapidity. The rescuers attempted to reach that part of the house where the Reynolds family slept, but were driven back so quickly that they had only time to recover Mrs. Reynolds' body before that part of the building was blazing. The woman's head had been crushed in, evidently by an axe, and the upper part of the body was horribly mutilated. The bed in which she lay was covered with blood. Reynolds' body did not appear to be in the same room. The body of the girl was not found until daylight. It lay among the ruins and was so badly burned as to be almost unrecognizable. It is believed that Reynolds was called to his daughter's room and that when he reached her bedside he received his death blow. At the same time the girl was probably killed. The murderer, it is supposed, then went to Mrs. Reynolds' room, and, after stabbing her twice in the face, battered her head in with some blunt instrument.

When Mowry left the house he went to the woods, where he shot himself in the head. The bullet only stunned him, however, and he did not repeat the attempt. He then went to the barn of Leander Buffum, where he was found. In his possession was a revolver with two empty chambers and an empty oil can was found in his room. Mowry slept in another part of the dwelling and a hasty examination, made when the fire was discovered, showed that his bed had not been disturbed. The farm buildings, valued at $2,000, were totally destroyed. Reynolds and his wife were each about 50 years of age. Servilla was their adopted daughter, the child of Mrs. Reynold's deceased brother. Reynolds had little money and none thought that robbery could have been the motive for the crime.

Avoid An Early Grave.

How often do we hear, that the avenue to an early grave was opened by neglecting a slight cough and cold. Profit by this truth, and provide yourself with Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, which instantly cures all throat and lung affections. Mr. W. H. Mahoney, Lowell, Mass., writes: "I was taken sick with a bad cold. The doctors did not seem to help me, and everybody said I was getting consumption, when a relative recommended Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. I got a bottle and it helped me, and after taking two bottles I was cured, to the surprise of everybody. I shall always recommend it to my friends, as I know it to be a sure cure." Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is sold everywhere for 25 cents. Don't accept a substitute.

CUBA WINS A BATTLE.

THE SPANIARDS FLEE, ABANDONING DEAD, WOUNDED AND ARMS.

Garcia Captures a General. Patriots take 200 Rifles and 300,000 Rounds of Ammunition After a Hand-to-Hand Conflict in Pinar del Rio.

A big battle has been fought at San Miguel de Encrucijada, Pinar del Rio province, between the Spanish battalion of Gerona and some 1,000 insurgents led by Vidal Ducasse and Perico Delgado. After a hand-to-hand fight the Spanish retired, leaving on the field their dead and wounded and horses, arms, and ammunition. Since Maceo's time no other battle of such importance has been fought in the province of Pinar del Rio. The effect produced in Havana by the news is almost unprecedented.

The Spanish explain that the combination of two columns, which were to attack the Cubans on two sides, failed. They say that the battalion of Gerona was ordered to maintain without help a bad position, to encourage the insurgents to the attack, and then to drive them to a certain place at which another battalion was expected to overwhelm the patriotic force.

The victory has been especially grateful to the Cubans, as they were in need of ammunition and had decided to use their last in this action. They captured 200 rifles and about 300,000 rounds of ammunition.

A report from Santiago de Cuba says that Gen. Linares reports a victory over the insurgents at Sabanilla.

An expedition has landed fifteen miles from the city of Havana, at Punta del Indio.

In the province of Pinar del Rio the war is being carried on with great enthusiasm by the insurgents. An engagement is reported at San Francisco and Recompensa between the Spanish forces of Vergara and the Cubans led by Bermudez in which both sides have had heavy losses. Bermudez claims the victory and so do the Spaniards.

General Weyler is reported to be greatly concerned over the fate of the garrison of the principal Spanish fort at Seborucal, near Placetas. The fort was attacked on Friday by a large force of insurgents, who bombarded it with dynamite shells fired from a pneumatic cannon.

The fort was utterly destroyed, half of the garrison being killed, and the other half, excepting four men who were captured, fled to Placetas. Nearly all of the men of the garrison killed were colored Spanish soldiers from the battalion of Havana firemen.

AN INSTITUTION HARD HIT.

The Illinois State University Nearly a Million Short.

Developments have brought out the fact that a far greater amount of University of Illinois funds is involved in the suspension of the Globe Savings bank than has been supposed. Two years ago the State Legislature appropriated $423,000, of which, according to the State laws, enough was to be drawn out monthly to meet the current expenses of the University. It appears, however, that in consideration of 12 1-2 per cent interest on the funds, the University trustees allowed Treasurer Spalding to withdraw the whole sum from the treasury. This is admitted by members of the Board. Thus, not only is $400,000 worth of school bonds missing, but $423,000 in cash is tied up, a total of $823,000. To add to the complications, it is said that should President Spalding be unable to account for the funds his bondsmen will refuse to be held responsible, their defence being that a private deal of that kind between the University Board, the State Treasury officials and Treasurer Spalding is sufficient cause to release them from their obligations.

GRATITUDE OF A WIDOW.

Paddy Boyle of Oil Fame Paid for a Kind and Benevolent Act.

Mrs. Rose Harrison, of Pittsburg, the widow of a former employe of P. C. Boyler, editor of the Oil City Derrick, and a famous oil scout, bequeathed to him her estate valued at $6,000.

Mrs. Harrison was the wife of Chas. C. Harrison, formerly on the editorial staff of the Oil City Derrick. He died of Bright's disease, and for a year before his death was unable to work. During this time Mr. Boyle assisted him, and it is out of gratitude that Mrs. Harrison left to him her property.

Mrs. Lease "of New York City."

Mary Elizabeth Lease is no longer "of Kansas." At Kansas City last Monday she registered at a hotel as "of New York City." The local reporter calls her "Colonel," and apologizing for inadvertently saying that she has left Kansas "for good," changes it to "permanently." He says she dropped into Missouri only to inquire how the women were getting along.

ENGLAND AND THE TRANSVAAL.

Apparent Preparation for War with President Oom Paul.

London, Eng., April 13.—There are indications that the British preparations against the Transvaal multiply in many directions.

It was semi-officially reported during the week that two more regiments have been notified to prepare for service in South Africa, and negotiations are pending with Scotch shipowners for four transports, to be ready at the end of June.

Though President Krueger has court-martialed his grandson, Lieut. Eloff, for using insulting language toward Queen Victoria, the most bitter comments can be heard in the clubs and among the better classes against President Krueger, who, it is claimed, has done as much as Lieut. Eloff to insult the Queen.

The liberals are beginning to scent coming troubles, and are raising up a warning finger. "Truth," on this subject, says:

"There is serious danger that we shall drift into war with the Transvaal. Lord Salisbury's government is apparently bent upon forcing a quarrel upon President Krueger. Every occasion is taken to insult him and everything he does is misrepresented. If the outcome is not war, it is only because the Ministry have at length realized that war with the Transvaal does not mean a contest with a puny African tribe, but a race war in which the majority of the whites at the Cape and all the Boers will be against us."

The Grandson of a Vanderbilt Marries a Widowed Actress.

Elliott F. Shepard, son of the late Elliott F. Shepard, and grandson of William H. Vanderbilt, sprang a surprise on his wealthy relatives by marrying Mrs. Esther Potter, the widow of Alfred Potter.

The groom is only twenty years of age and is still dependent upon his mother for his income. The bride is said to be 25.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. John Hall of the aristocratic Fifth avenue Presbyterian church.

The bride was for some time connected with a theatrical company in the capacity of a soubrette, but has not been performing on the stage of late.

1,000 TORNADO CAVES.

The New Industry in Oklahoma—Tornado Victims Become Insane.

Perry, Oklahoma, April 14.—News comes from Chandler, Oklahoma, the ill-fated city that was visited two weeks ago by the terrific tornado which nearly wiped out the town, killing 20 and wounding nearly 100 persons, that many of the wounded, have gone crazy. This is especially true among the women. It is estimated that more than 1,000 tornado caves are being dug in Chandler and the surrounding country.

New Jersey Elections.

At the local elections Tuesday the Democrats made a sweep in Jersey City, Hoboken and Newark while in Paterson and other places they elected their candidates for Mayor and other local officers.

In Paterson the Republicans elected six out of ten aldermen.

The Republicans won their most substantial victory in Trenton, where Welling G. Sickel was elected Mayor by 2,100 plurality over Henry Vanderveer. The Republicans elected nine members of the Common Council, giving them a majority in that board. The Democrats elected four Freeholders.

In Bayonne, Egbert Seymour, democrat, was elected Mayor over Republican and Independent candidates.

Lambertville went Republican, electing William E. Wagg Mayor by 200. This is the first Republican Mayor elected in eight years.

The Democrats in Dover elected County Surrogate George Person, Mayor over David Young (Rep.) by a majority of thirty-one on local issues.

Dover is normally republican by about 300 majority.

New Brunswick elected a Republican Mayor and Democratic Council.

Phillipsburg re-elected Mayor Frost.

Flemington elected an entire Prohibition ticket.

Vetoed Greater New York Bill.

Mayor Strong, of New York, returned the Greater New York charter to the Legislature with his disapproval. He holds that the bill should provide for a municipal assembly with but a single chamber, a single-headed Police Commission and a bi-partisan Board of Elections, and for granting to the Mayor the power of removal throughout his entire term. It is probable that the bill will be passed over the Mayor's veto.

The New York Senate passed the Greater New York Charter bill over Mayor Strong's veto by a vote of 34 to 10. The Assemqly took similar action Monday.

A Baron or Not a Baron.

San Francisco, April 12.—Mrs. Jeannine Young, the woman who assumed the name of Mrs. D. M. Delmas, is not a baroness after all. The man she married in Oakland, on Saturday, and with whom she is now speeding across the Continent on her wedding tour is not the Baron Robert Ludwig Von Turkheim. He is not a member of the Royal Guards of Germany nor does he own estates in mannheim, County of Baden, Germany. He is plain Charles J. Von Arnol, Alias Baron Carl Von Steinmotz; a private detective in the employe of Charles J. Stilwell. The attorney of Mrs. Young said in the presence of Chief of Police Lees last night:

"The wedding party will be stopped at Ogden or some place this side of Ogden and Von Arnold will be brought back to Sacramento to answer a charge of perjury.

Once inside this State he will be held if he escapes the charge of perjury to await a requisition from Kentucky, where he is wanted for a forgery committed in Louisville. The marriage ceremony with Mrs. Young was illegal, because Von Arnold made misrepresentations to her.

—A Unionville correspondent to the Centre Magnet, referring to the closing exercises of the schools of that place, has the following mention of one of Philipsburg's young ladies who had been one of the efficient teachers. The primary teacher, Miss Pearl Bible, by her kind and gentle manner during the term, had so far gained the affections of her pupils that some of the little ones went home crying as though their hearts would break at parting from her. That is the kind of a teacher who will do effective work.

COURT PROCLAMATION—Whereas the Honorable J. G. Love, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the 49th Judicial District, consisting of the county of Centre, and the Honorable Corlis Faulkner, Associate Judge in and for Centre county, having issued their precept, bearing date of 1st day of January, 1897, to me directed for holding a Court of Common Pleas and Orphans' Court, Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery and Quarter Sessions of the Peace in Bellefonte, for the County of Centre and to commence on the 4th Monday of April, being the 26th day of April, 1897, and to continue one week. Notice is hereby given to the coroner, justice of the peace, aldermen and constables of said County of Centre, that they be then and there in their proper persons, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of the 26th, with their records, inquisitions, examinations, and their own remembrances to do those things which to their office appertains to be done, and those who are bound in recognizances to prosecute against the prisoners that are or shall be in the jail of Centre county be then and there to prosecute against them as shall be just.

Notice is also hereby given and by virtue the precept of the Judges aforesaid, issued as aforesaid, there will be held a regular court of Common Pleas, for the trial of civil cases, beginning on Monday, April 26th, 1897 at 10 o'clock, upon which all persons summoned as jurors are required to attend.

Given under my hand, at Bellefonte, the 25th day of March, in the year of our Lord 1897, and the one hundred and twenty-first year of the independence of the United States. W. M. CRONISTER, Sheriff.

AN INTERMITTENT HEART.

STOPPED EVERY THIRD BEAT.

But Mrs. Strope's Heart Now no Longer Lags but Throbs Regularly.

From the Leader, Cleveland, Ohio.

In a large, commodious house at No. 104 Huntington Street, Cleveland, Ohio, lives Mrs. Emily A. Strope, widow of the late X. M. Strope, and she is the mother of a young man who has been, and is now one of this city's successful and energetic pharmacists. Mrs. Strope, who has lately recovered from serious cardiac difficulty, when questioned by a reporter regarding her late illness, stated as follows:

"Two years ago, I had my first experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For a long time I was troubled with an ailment which I feared would eventually drive me crazy unless I rid myself of it. It will sound strange, no doubt, to some, but my heart did not beat as it should. Its action was irregular. There would be two pulsations, or perhaps three, and then a sudden cessation. My heart seemed to rest for the period of one or two beats, and then resume its action. Sometimes such lapses would not be so frequent as that, but scarcely a day passed that they did not occur. It felt as though something would strike the heart with great force, and push it out of place. During that period, whenever I lay down to sleep or rest, my hands would become perfectly numb and helpless. I could feel the temporary paralysis coming over them, but I could do nothing which would prevent it. My feet were affected in a like manner, and I had considerable difficulty in walking when such a spell had possession of me. Naturally that state of affairs completely upset my nerves, and any one whose nervous system is well nigh shattered, can appreciate and understand the misery, chiefly mental, which I endured. I lost much sleep and rest, and often I was compelled from sheer exhaustion to sit down during the day to obtain some repose. But as soon as I did so I felt that numb sensation come over my hands and feet, and I rocked violently in my chair to drive it away, but frequently to no avail.

"One day my son, who was keeping a drug store at the time, brought me home some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and advised me to take them for my heart trouble. I did so and soon began to feel better. I used the pills about two months and they certainly cured me, for now my heart beats regularly and all numbness has disappeared and my circulation is in splendid order."

We print the above hoping Mrs. Strope's experienee may be beneficial to others who may suffer from derangement of the heart.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

"A Breezy Time."

Fitz & Webster's merry company of comedy players, in "A Breezy Time," delighted a fair sized audience at Garman's Opera House, Saturday night.

It was a musical farce comedy, and fun waxed fast and furious from begining to end. While the comedy itself was played here by the same company last season, the specialties introduced Saturday night, were all new and up to date.

E. B. Fitz and Kathryn Webster were a whole show in themselves with their songs and musical specialties.

The "Tennis Quintette" and "The Turkish Bell Gavotte" were fine and were loudly encored.

In the company are Robert Mansfield, James Shields, Leo Clifford, Rado & Martin, contortionists, Tony Murphy, Emma Ballard, Mary Olinger and Camilla Smith. This makes one of the strongest companies that has played here this season.

They expect to take a vacation this week, continuing on their route after Easter Sunday. It is hoped that their stay in Bellefonte may be a pleasant one.

Spring Requires

That the impurities which have accumulated in your blood during the winter shall be promptly and thoroughly expelled if good health is expected. When the warmer weather comes these impurities are liable to manifest themselves in various ways and often lead to serious illness. Unless the blood is rich and pure that tired feeling will afflict you, your appetite will fail and you will find yourself "all run down." Hood's Sarsaparilla tones and strengthens the system, drives out all impurities and makes pure, rich, healthy blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true blood purifier and the best spring medicine. Be sure to get only Hood's.

Question of Adipose.

A criminal lawyer of long experience at the bar was heard to say the other day:

"I have made juries in murder cases an especial study. There are a large number of men, larger than most people suppose, who have scruples about finding death as a punishment for a murderer. I used to make it my business to study jurymen's faces and see if I could read by the lines whether or not they had scruples about the death sentence. I gave this up, though, as being beyond my power of comprehension. Later continued study of the jury box led me to a discovery. That was that in nine cases out of ten a jury composed mostly of tall, lean men would, when the evidence was sufficient, never have the slightest hesitation about fixing extreme sentence. On the other hand, a jury where short, fat men predominated in number would occupy twice as much time in finding its verdict, and when brought in it would generally be a term of imprisonment for the murderer."—Louisville Commercial.

Pine Grove Academy Reunion.

Pursuant to a call the executive committee on reunion of the ex-students of Pine Grove academy and seminary, met in the parlors of the Ward House, Tyrone, on the evening of the 8th inst., and organized by electing Capt. W. H. Fry hairman and J. K. Bottorf secretary. It was, on motion, resolved that the reunion be held in the academy grove at Pine Grove Mills, on Tuesday, June 22d next, and in the event of that day being inclement the meeting to be continued the following day.

The executive committee consists of ex-Governor James A. Beaver, Bellefonte; Capt. W. H. Fry, Pine Grove Mills; Prof. George W. Weaver, Clearfield; A. J. Mattern, Tyrone; Hon. David L. Krebs, Clearfield; Miss Kate L. Moser, Altoona; Miss Annie Haugh, Warriorsmark; Miss Sue Dannley, A. G. Archey, Pine Grove Mills; John H. Miller, John K. Bottorf, Tyrone.

Sub-committees were appointed as follows:

Transportation—Ex-Gov. Jas. A. Beaver, chairman.

Invitation—John H. Miller, chairman.

Finances—Captain W. H. Fry, chairman.

Local committee on arrangements and reception will be selected by the citizens of Pine Grove Mills.

As the Bellefonte Central railroad now extends to Pine Grove Mills access is convenient. There will be excursion trains for the occasion. It is the desire of the executive committee that all the ex-students cooperate with them in an effort to make the affair an enjoyable success. Let there be a full turn out.

By order of committee.

W. H. FRY, Chairman.
J. K. BOTTORF, Sec'y.

The French say "it is the impossible that happens." This has proved to be the case with the Mount Lebanon Shakers The whole scientific world has been laboring to cure dyspepsia, but every effort seemed to meet with defeat. The suffering from stomach troubles has become almost universal. Multitudes have no desire for food and that which they do eat causes them pain and distress. Sleepless nights are the rule and not the exception, and thousands of sufferers have become discouraged.

The Shakers of Mount Lebanon recently came to the front with their new Digestive Cordial, which contains not only a food already digested, but is a digester of food. It promptly relieves nearly all forms of indigestion. Ask your druggist for one of their books.

WINGED SEEDS.

The Wind Plays an Important Part In the Spreading of Plants.

The usual way for seeds to be carried is by the wind. Sometimes they are so small and light as to be easily wafted by the breezes. This is the case with the seed of the moccasin flowers and meadow pinks and the other beautiful plants of our woods and bogs called orchids. And the tiny bodies, like atoms of dust, termed "spores," that answer to seed in ferns and mosses and toadstools, are borne away by the lightest breath of air. But most seeds are themselves too heavy for this. So they are ofttimes provided with thin, broad wings that carry them before the wind as a sail carries a boat. The pairs of "keys" that hang in clusters from the maple trees in spring are such winged fruits. When ripe, they float slowly to the ground, or if a high wind is blowing they are carried farther from the tree. The ash has thick bunches of winged fruits much like these, but single. The elm has a thin, papery border all around its small seeds, which makes them quite conspicuous as they hang on the branchlets before the leaves have come out.

Numbers of plants have about the seeds delicate hairs or bristles that take the place of wings. A dandelion "clock," or a head of thistle down, is a bunch of seeds, each with a circle of fine bristles on the summit. When the seeds are ripe, along comes a breeze, and, puff, away go the seeds, hanging from their tufts of bristles as the basket hangs from a balloon. The bunches of long silky hairs that come from a bursting pod of milkweed and fill the air around have each their precious cargo in the shape of a small brown seed. The seeds that ripen in heads on the clematis after the handsome purple flower leaves have fallen have long feathered tails, like slender bird plumes, that do the same work that is given to the silk of milkweed. The "cotton" around the seeds of the willows at the riverside and of the poplars along city streets serves the same useful purpose. Cotton itself is only a bunch of fine white hair around the seed. Ages before men thought of spinning it and weaving it into cloth it was making itself useful to the cotton plant by helping to scatter its seeds. — "How Plants Spread," by Thomas H. Kearney, Jr., in St. Nicholas.

QUESTION OF LUCK.

A Citation That Clinched the Other Side of the Argument.

"I hate to hear people say there's no such thing as luck," remarked the melancholy Mr. Dolittle.

"I don't see why," his wife rejoined.

"Because it isn't true," he returned with asperity. "A man can go on trying and trying and never get along, and some other person will go ahead and tumble into good things without making any effort whatever."

"Hiram, no great man has succeeded without hard work."

"That's the kind of talk you always hear. But nine times out of ten it is all owing to the opportunity that presented itself. Fortune just seems to lie in wait to kidnap some men. Look at Sir Isaac Newton. His name is handed down from generation to generation. And why? Simply because he was sitting under a tree, and an apple happened to drop on him. You can't pretend that a man is in a position to claim superior merit simply because, through no action or preference of his own, he gets hit in the head with an apple, can you?"

"No, Hiram."

"Then don't tell me about there not being any such thing as luck."

"It seems to me that you've chosen a poor example in support of your argument. The case of Isaac Newton goes to show that the difference is in the people. If it had been some men that I know of instead of Newton, the first thing they would have done after the apple fell would have been to go into the house and moan for the arnica bottle; then they would have spent two or three hours of precious time talking about their bad luck."

A LETTER FROM DR. HOLMES.

He Tells a Little Girl of an Adventure When He Was a Boy.

Isabella Graham Murdock contributes to St. Nicholas an experience of her school day life, in which she quotes the following interesting letter that she received from Oliver Wendell Holmes:

BOSTON, March 15, 1880.

MY DEAR MISS ISABELLA—Here is one little incident of my life which I have never told in print:

When I was a little boy, I got upon a raft one day—a few boards laid together—which floated about in a pond—a very small pond, but rather bigger round than a dinner table. It was big enough, anyhow, to drown a little boy, and came pretty near doing it, for, while I was stooping over the edge of the raft, I slipped and went souse into the water.

I remember a great sound in my ears—"guggle, guggle." I said it was, when they asked me about it—and a desperate struggle, feeling that I was going to be drowned, just as little Sam Childs had been, and then all at once my whole past life seemed to flash before me as a train of cars going a thousand miles an hour—if such a speed were possible—would pass in one long crowded streak before the eyes of a person standing by the railroad.

I had never heard that this was a common experience with persons who are near drowning, but I have since heard of many cases where the same flash of their past lives has come before drowning people who have been rescued and have told about it.

You may put this story in your essay, if you like.

I get a great many letters from young persons, and it takes a great deal of my time to answer them, so I think I am quite good natured this evening to tell you all this. Don't you think so, dear Miss Isabella? Very truly yours, OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

The Horned Rattlesnake.

The oddest specimen of the snake family known to the American naturalist, not taking into consideration the two headed snake and other monstrosities of that ilk, is the horned rattlesnake, which up to a few years ago was thought to be one of the rarest as well as one of the most poisonous of serpents. Prior to the time when Dr. C. Hart Merriam made the famous Death valley exploring expedition, in 1892 3, but few specimens of it, and those mostly from the western desert regions, had been collected. The Death valley explorers say that Death valley is literally alive with them. They have horns on top of their heads and are the smallest rattlers known.—St. Louis Republic.

A BOY AND AN ORANGE.

Laurence Hutton Tells How He Succumbed to a Temptation In His Youth.

The boy was taught, from the earliest awakening of his reasoning powers, that truth was to be told and to be respected and that nothing was more wicked or more ungentlemanly than a broken promise. He learned very early to do as he was told and not to do, under any consideration, what he had said he would not do. Upon this last point he was strictly conscientious, although once, literally, he "beat about the bush." His Aunt Margaret, always devoted to plants and to flowers, had, on the back stoop of his grandfather's house, a little grove of orange and lemon trees in pots. Some one of these was usually in fruit or in flower, and the fruit to the boy was a great temptation. He was very fond of oranges, and it seemed to him that a "homemade" orange, which he had never tasted, must be much better than a grocer's orange, as homemade cake was certainly preferable even to the wonderful cakes made by the professional Mrs. Milderberger.

He watched those little green oranges from day to day as they gradually grew big and yellow in the sun. He promised faithfully that he would not pick any, but he had a notion that some of them might drop off. He never shook the trees, because he said he would not. But he shook the stoop, and he hung about the bush, which he was too honest to beat. One unusually tempting orange, which he had known from its budhood, finally overcame him. He did not pick it off, he did not shake it off. He compromised with his conscience by lying flat on his back and biting off a piece of it. It was not a very good action, nor was it a good orange, and for that reason, perhaps, he went home immediately and told on himself. He told his mother. He did not tell his Aunt Margaret.

His mother did not seem to be as much shocked at his conduct as he was. But in her own quaint way she gave him to understand that promises were not made to be cracked any more than they were made to be broken—that he had been false to himself in heart, if not in deed, and that he must go back and make it "all right" with his Aunt Margaret. She did not seem to be very much shocked either; he could not tell why. But they punished the boy. They made him eat the rest of the orange.

He lost all subsequent interest in that tropical glade, and he has never cared much for domestic oranges since.—"A Boy I Knew," by Laurence Hutton, in St. Nicholas.

GARISH BOOK BINDINGS.

They Are In Bad Taste and Are Disliked by Bookworm and Scholar.

Books have a right to be, first of all, books, not purveyors of whimsies in color and design. As matters are at this moment three-quarters of the new books look more like some strange entree at a feast than like everyday edibles. You take up one, and it has the air of a curious ragout; there are unknown fragments of design floating in a sauce of queer elemental color. The next one has an air as honest as apple sauce at first glance; 'tis a pale greenish thing, but presently you see that the trail of a serpent is over all its border. And who can hope for content from a dish thus garnished?

Again a book, and this one burns bright red and yellow, like a pudding on fire with cognac, which is all very well for a pudding. Another has a cover which looks like a resisting beefsteak pounded by the stern hand of fate in a boarding house; another reminds you irresistibly of coffee wherein chickory has too much inserted its diluting aid and cream is missing. But, first and last, the new books are ever more prone to resemble small plots of deceptive stage verdure than honest, simple souled books. It is impossible to help doubting the value of the literary pasturage to be found in such inclosures. Fortunately one is sometimes most joyously deceived. Authors have little "say" concerning the garb of their volumes, and often—good luck to them—they rise superior to the mechanical makers of books and rejoice the souls of their readers in spite of the bindings.

And it must be repeated that in the present bizarre and excessive fancies in binding there is seed of abounding hope for the future. Publishers are groping for something; few of them know what. But they will learn, and the world will be made glad by a genuine revival in the lovely old half forgotten craft of bookbinding. In that happy coming day there will be great honor for the men who lead the taste of this country toward better things in bookbinding, simpler and saner and more sincere.—Boston Transcript.

"MASTER SKYLARK,"

BY JOHN BENNETT.

Illustrated by Birch.

THIS is a live story, full of action, color merriment and human nature. The world's greatest poet figures as one of the principal characters, although the hero and heroine are a boy and girl. It is poetic in treatment, but full of the romance of the Elizabethan age, and very dramatic in plot. Another serial beginning in November, is a great war story for North and South.

By William H Shelton. A strong story with a unique plot. Three Union soldiers, members of a signal corps, stationed on a mountain top cut a bridge that connects them with the rest of the world and become veritiable castaways in the midst of the Confederacy. Will be read with delight by children North and South

MANY TALES OF WOE

The Flood in The Mississippi by No Means Over Yet.

WHEN HOPE OF RELIEF MAY COME

That Time is Fully Five Weeks Distant and in the Meantime Great Suffering is a Possibility.

Jackson, Miss., April 8.—The following dispatch has just been received from Greenville: Every day brings us some tale of woe from the overflowed region. Here is one the Associated Press reporter learned this morning, which is perfectly trustworthy:

When the levee broke at Mound Landing a family consisting of a mother and six children were overtaken by the water, and before they could reach a place of safety four of the children were caught by the furiously rushing current and washed away almost in the twinkling of an eye. Who these people were was not learned in the confusion of the night. It is believed that the mother and the other two children were taken care of.

The railroad bridges across the streams in the county are going fast. An iron bridge across the Vogue, on the Valley route, was washed away yesterday. There were some 150 cattle and horses upon it at the time. The southern bridges on the Bogue have also been washed away.

The Yazoo river is running up stream from its mouth nearly to Greenwood, on account of the high stage of the water at Vicksburg. Here today the river is on a stand.

The river report just received today is anything but encouraging, and there is frankly no hope of relief from the present conditions for five weeks at least.

New Orleans, April 8.—The flood wave has not yet given Louisiana its fullest force, and the levees still average several feet above the water. A few more storms like that of Tuesday night will leave little damage for the flood to do, and the weather holds more dread for the levee boards than the rising river. Along Bayou la Fourche the vegetable crop was ruined and many substantial structures injured, but strange to say, the levees regarded as probably the weakest part of the Louisiana system came through unscathed. This has given the water-side dwellers hope, and they will make a gallant effort to hold the banks.

Bryan Meets with an Accident.

St. Augustine, Fla., April 8.—Hon. W. J. Bryan, was injured here this afternoon by the caving in of the piazza from which he was speaking. Nearly 400 men and women were precipitated about twenty feet to the ground and many of them ininjured, but none fatally. Mr. Bryan was picked up unconscious and removed to a physician's office, where an examination revealed that he had received no injuries of a serious character. It was deemed best, however, to abandon the reception which was to have been given him this evening.

Jews Have No Missionaries.

It is a well known historical fact that the Jews never employ missionaries to gain converts and that their religious organization is the only religious one in the world that makes no attempt at proselyting.

There are several causes for such action, the principal one being that Moses and the Prophets were never charged to send missionaries to convert others of different faiths. They do not believe that any sect has a patent right to the Kingdom of Heaven. They teach that the best way to propagate any religion is to show its excellencies in daily walk and conduct.

A Rabbi writer in the "Hebrew Standard," in speaking on the missionary business, says: "It would be far better if our Christian friends would spend the sheckels which they lavish on foreign missionaries on the poor at home. Instead of trying to save the soul of the heathen in foreign lands, to save the hungry, starving body of the Christian at home. If the state of affairs were such that poverty would be unknown at home; if there were no widows weeping and no orphans, no needy, distressed fellow-men bent down in grief, and no adversity-stricken families famishing, no well filled jails, no flaunting vice, neither crime nor corruption, then we would have no right to find fault with the churches if they chose to send missionaries to foreign climes. But as it is, the question with us is to ameliorate suffering at home, and that with bread first, and religion next."

At Cooking School.

A young lady who formerly resided in this county and will graduate from Mrs. Rorer's Philadelphia Cooking school next month, writes a friend in this place, from which letter we make the following extract:

"On May 1st I give my examination dinner. This is the menu:

Consummi.
German Farine Cake.
Olives. Salted Almonds.
Boiled Flounders.
Potato Balls. Sauce Hollandaise.
Boned Rolled Chicken.
Cream Mushroon Sauce.
Peas.
Lett ce Salade.
Wafers. Cheese.
Charlott Russe.
Coffee.

"How does that strike you? I have to cook it all myself in presence of the class and examining committee and serve it to the latter. We have seven papers to write on different branches of cooking and chemistry. They tell me that the examination is pretty hard. I'll be glad when all is over and I am home again."

New Style Postal Cards.

On the first day of July next the bill permitting the printing and use of private mailing cards, with a one cent stamp affixed will go into effect. The progressive business man will have his own advertisement conspicuously displayed, and the printing of millions of cards will make work for the printer. The bill is approved by the postoffice department, as it tends to popularize postal cards besides affecting a saving to the government of the difference between the cost of the cards and the stamps.

ASensational Wedding.

Williamsport, Pa., April 8.—General Superintendent A. G. Palmer, of the Beech Creek railroad, and Miss Mary Baer, were married yesterday in the former's private car, while it was speeding over the rails at forty miles an hour. The wedding occurred in the afternoon between Jersey Shore and Newberry, and was performed by Rev. P. S. Kohler, a Presbyterian minister of Jersey Shore. The bride's brother and his wife witnessed the ceremony.

FIGHTING ON THE BORDER

The Turkish Frontier Crossed By the Greeks.

A BATTLE BEGUN YESTERDAY

Edham Pasha Places His Army in Readiness to Move and is Only Waiting to Detect the Presence of any Greek Troops Among the Invaders.

Elassona, Turkey, April 9.—A force supposed to be Greek irregulars crossed the Turkish frontier at Krania this morning, and fighting between them and the Turks has been in progress all day. Krania is 19 hours' march from the Turkish headquarters here. The Turks are reported to have surrounded the Greeks, and the Turkish division under Hakki Pasha, stationed at Grevena, 10 miles from Krania, is advancing to the scene of the conflict. Edhem Pasha, Turkish commander-in-chief, has ordered the whole army to be in readiness for a forward movement.

It is impossible to discover whether there are any Greek regular troops among the invaders, but if the Turkish officers ascertain the presence of the uniforms of the Greek regulars in the ranks of the aggressors, Edhem Pasha will order the advance of the entire Turkish army.

The Turkish army and line of defense are in fine condition. The transport service is excellent. Four thousand pack horses are employed and enormous masses of war stores, pontoons, cannon, tents, medicines, ammunition, and, in fact, everything needed for a large army has been gathered here.

Constantinople, April 9—The war preparations throughout the Turkish empire continue to be steadily pressed. A very pessimistic feeling prevails here at coorce Greece. The blockade of the Piraeus, seems as far off as ever, and the war party is bringing pressure to bear upon the government with the result that the Porte has dispatched circulars to the representatives abroad, setting forth Turkey's growing impatience at the prolongation of the crisis, which is pressing heavily upon an already embarrassed exchequer. The belief prevails here that the powers are losing their hold over the course of events, and that their so-called concert is a failure.

A new danger has arisen through the circulation in Constantinople and the provinces of a pamphlet reciting alleged Christian atrocities on Musulmans in Crete and elsewhere. This is so inflaming the Turks against the Greeks that the Grecian minister has drawn the attention of the Porte to the matter. The government has promised to take measures necessary to prevent outbreaks.

Chicago, April 9.—At the request of Lady Henry Somerset, Miss Frances Willard, president of the W. C. T. U., has consented that $1,500 of the funds shall be spent for white ribbon for nurses in Crete.

Scully Was Beaten.

Philadelphia, April 8.—Jack McCormack, of this city, defeated Pat Scully, of Ireland, in four rounds at the Tuxedo club to-night. The bout was limited to six rounds. The local man had all the best of it and in the fourth had Scully nearly out. When the gong sounded he was unable to stand and the fight was warded to McCormack.

In the First Degree.

Ridgway, Pa., April 8—The jury in the case of Fredercik Rockwell, charged with the murder of Lewis Haines, in January last, tonight brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree. The jury, after having heard all the evidence, occupied exactly one hour in coming to its determination of Rockwell's guilt. The trial has taken the past three days and has attracted considerable attention.

Rockwell was alleged to have been intimate with Haines' wife and on the day of the murder lured Haines from the house and crushed his skull with a crowbar. He then placed the body in an old blacksmith shop and set fire to the building. The discovery of the charred remains and Haines' mysterious disappearance led to Rockwell's arrest. Mrs. Haines also confessed to Rockwell's intimacy with her. This established the motive.

Today Haines' wife testified that Rockwell told her how he had killed Haines and then said, "Now you can marry me." The defense denied the killing and tried to prove that the commonwealth had failed to establish the fact of Haines' death, as the remains found were unrecognizable. It was stated on the prisoner's behalf that since Haines' disappearance he had been seen in New York state. On the other hand, a portion of clothing found on the charred body was identified by the prosecution's witnesses as belonging to Haines.

FATAL COLLISION

A Florida Special Collides With a Local Passenger Train.

THREE KILLED AND SIX INJURED

The Special Was Late and Had Orders to Pass the Local, Which Failed to Reach the Siding at the Right Time.

Charlotte, N. C., April 11.—Northbound Florida special on the Southern railway, No. 36, and local south-bound passenger No. 11 collided at 11;15 o'clock this morning at Harrisburg a small town about thirteen miles north of this city, killing three persons and wounding six.

The killed: T. Clingman Benton, of Charlotte, aged 35, postal clerk on No. 11; Titus Brady, of Forest Hill, Concord; Will Donaldson, fireman on No. 36.

Wounded: W. B. Tunestall, of Danville, engineer of No. 36, badly scalded about the head, arms and face: J. C. Kinney, of Thomasville, engineer of No. 11, scalded about the chest, back, arms and neck, will die. James Lovell, conductor of No. 11, cut on the face; Fitzhugh Lee, colored porter of No. 11, legs hurt; William S. Clements, of East Durham, N. C., slightly hurt; R. E. Gallagher, express messenger, hurt about the head and arms, also badly bruised.

The northbound special was late in leaving Charlotte but was given the right of way, its orders being to pass the local train at Harrisburg where there is a siding. No. 11 had slowed up preparatory to taking the siding and was but a hundred yards from the north end of the switch when the express, running at forty-five miles an hour, dashed into it. The two engines came together with a terrific crash which resembled a sharp crack of thunder. Just previous to the collision Engineer Tunestall applied the air brake and jumped. Many of the passengers on No. 36 were thrown from their seats but none of them were hurt. The two express cars on the north bound train were shattered into thousands of pieces and soon after the accident the postal car on the local caught fire, but by the use of chemicals the flames were extinguished.

Postal Clerk Benton suffered a horrible death. his legs were pinioned so close to the boiler of one of the engines that he was being burned by the heat and steam. he begged piteously to his rescuers to cut off his legs and extricate him. Although every effort was made to release the sufferer, it was an hour and a half before he was taken out. He lived but fifteen minutes longer. Fireman Donaldson and Euny were found in the centre of the wreck. Kenney was taken from the wreck alive, but is so badly scalded that he is not expected to live throughout the night. The wounded are being cared for in this city.

Senator Voorhees Dead.

Washington, April 10.—Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, died at 5 o'clock this morning at his home. He had been in poor health for at least a year past and taken little part in the proceedings of the Senate. His friends for some time have expected a sudden end from rheumatic affection of the heart. Last reports were that he was improving.

Senator Voorhees was the nominal leader of his party on the floor of the Senate in the discussion of the tariff and financial questions.

Daniel W. Voorhees was born in Butler county, Ohio, September 26, 1827, and in 1849 was graduated at what has during later years been known as De Pauw University. Upon his admission to the bar in 1851 he began the practice of law at Covington, Ind. In 1858 he was appointed United States attorney of Indiana, and during his official career proceeded to Harper's Ferry and appeared as counsel for John E. Cook, one of John Brown's band of raiders.

He was a member of Congress from 1860 to 1866, and again from 1868 to 1872, serving as a member of the more important committees. In November, 1877, he became United States Senator from Indiana, vice Oliver P. Morton, deceased, and was elected to that body in 1879, and again in 1885, and in 1891 for the term ending March, 1897.

Senator Fairbanks, a Republican, succeeded Senator Voorhees March 4, this year. The deceased statesman was given the sobriquet of the "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash."

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE.

A orce in Public Affairs and Potent for Entertainment and Instruction o Every Member of the Family.

A Colored Pictorial Supplement With Every Friday's Semi-Weekly.

The New York Semi-Weekly Tribune, the only Semi-Weekly newspaper which has maintained a successful existence in the United States, is printed every Tuesday and Friday. Regular subscription price $2 a year.

A newspaper of really high intellectual quality, printed in the largest and most legible type used in New York, a great, decent, self respecting and instructive journal, The Tribune is vigorous in support of Republican principles, but places country even above party and has recently won from the Democratic New York Sun the admission that by reason of its thoroughly American spirit, it "commands the respect of all parties" and "occupies a position of distinction in New York.

In directing attention, early and pointedly, to the availability of McKinley and Hobart for the Republican nominations in 1896, The Tribune played a well known and important part.

The Semi-Weekly Tribune prints the best news, book reviews, foreign letters, editorials, and specia features of The Daily Tribune. It has a charming page for women, excellent market reports and informa tion for farmers, a department of Science and Mechanics in which poor inventors can exploit their inventions free of charge, and a great variety of stories and entertaining miscellany. Never unprofitable, full of what is useful and inspiring, every reader of The Semi-WeeklyTribune feels that he is in touch with the bustle and best of life.

Men and women leading busy lives have little opportunity for vacation; and for their entertainment and the amusement of the young, the Tribune will hereafter issue, with every Friday's Semi-Weekly, a colored serio-comic pictorial supplement of 16 pages, entitled "Twinkles." But in order to possess "Twinkles" a subscriber must hereafter remit the full sum of the Semi-Weekly Tribune—$2 a year—to The Tribune uitself direct.

"Twinkles" is handsomely printed on superfine paper; and every one of its 16 pages is filled with jokes witty paragraphs, and gossip about noted people, sprinkled amongst which are fifty or more political or oth e cartoons, in several colors, half-tone portraits of well known men and women (life-like as photographs), and humorous pen drawings,. There is not a word or a picture unfit for the family; and the amusing contents of "Twinkles" will prove a welcome addition to the more serious contents of the paper.

"Twinkles" is virtually a five cent comic weekly, price 5 cents a copy; $2 a year. But it is given free to every one who orders the Semi-Weekly Tribune for one year and remits to The Tribune direct, the regular subscription price of $2 a year. He thus gets two $2 papers for the price of one. This is a bargain, considering that the Tribune is incapable of sending into any family anything which is unfit to be read there.

Sample copies of Friday's Semi-Weekly free.

Those who do not remit $2 to The Tribune direct will not receive the colored supplement.

Mr. Willard Lee In "A Cheerful Liar."

STORY OF THE PLAY

During the civil war Hastings Hussel and Bert Boomer fought side by side in the confederate army. After the declaration of peace both of them moved north, where Boomer grew wealthy in the real estate business and married. Hussel went to Indiana, became a country justice and remained single. Boomer, a widower when the play opens, had a daughter who eloped with Randolph Dearborn. The young people being followed on the next train by the irate father. Flora and her lover go to Hussel to be married but find that a license is necessary in Indiana, while they are gone to get one Boomer arrives and the old friends recognize each other. When Randolph returns Hussel offers for a consideration to pacify Boomer and gain his consent, trusting to the young man's aristocratic name and Boomers Southern ideas of birth etc to work his point. He finds however, that Randolph is a foundling and so undertakes to provide him with parents. He works Lucretia Spriggins and old maid and "Rev." Ezra Stiggins a gold cure fraud, into the plot to impersonate the parents, and just as success crowns his efforts Birdie Sweetlove denounces the conspiracy. Then Boomer determines that Flora must be married at once and offers her to Hussel. The judge jumps at the chance and goes to Boomer's summer villa to pay court. Flora to thwart him, disguises herself in her cousin Tom's clothes and tells her ancient admirer that Flora has gone to town. Meanwhile Hussel learns that Randolph has arrived for a stolen interview, and noticing the striking likeness of the supposed Tom to Flora, proposes that Tom shall masquerade as his cousin and take a rise out of his rival. Flora is only too willing, and putting on her own clothes receives her lover. The climax is reached when Hussel, to carry the joke on Randolph to its limit marries the supposed Tom to him. Of course, when the general returns, it is found that the marriage is legal, and so the two old fellows make the best of a bad job. The Cheerful Liar will be the Easter attraction at the Opera House April 19th, be sure and see it.

An old Copy of the Republican.

W. C. Kreamer, of Milesburg, has in his possession a nicely preserved copy of the Bellefonte Republican, issue of Dec. 22nd, 1869. Though not really as old as many we have on file in this office it is, nevertheless, very interesting to look over. The paper was then a four page, eight column sheet and was chuck full of good, home advertising. W. W. Brown and A. B. Hutchison were the editors. Among the news items it contains is a story of a visit made to State College, and a theatrical local for Miss Agnes Wallace, who was to support S. B. Villa, in a production of the comedy, "Castle," for five nights in Bush's hall, the towns play house in those days. We mention this latter article because the actress married the leading man afterwards and has played in Bellefonte at different times, recently, as Agnes Wallace Villa. Some Bellefonte merchants would possibly find an explanation of the reason they are not doing any business to-day if they would look over some of such old newspaper files and see what advertising was done when men were making money in Bellefonte.—Democratic Watchman.

Oh, How They Hurt.

Neuralgic pains are often so acute, that the poor sufferer becomes, almost, frenzied with the intensity of the pain. Salvation Oil will instantly relieve and effectually cure neuralgia, so there is no reason why a moment's pain should be endured. Mr. Jacob Klein, 1036 Main St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "My wife suffered from neuralgia for seven years and since she used Salvation Oil, she has not had a spell. I think it is the best liniment I have ever tried, and I would not be without a bottle of it in the house. I had the rheumatism for five years and had tried a great many liniments, and must say that Salvation Oil did me more good than any other remedy." Salvation Oil is sold everywhere for 25 cents.

Mrs. Hare was born at Lower Merion, Centre county, May 31, 1820, and was consequently in her 77th year. She was a consistent christian woman, a member of the Adventist denomination. She had been ailing for four years and was a great sufferer most of that time, but bore her sufferings with true christian fortitude.—Lock Haven Express.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common water glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. A Tot's Narrow Escape.

"Mamma, I'see smokin'" was the startling cry which Mrs. Robert Miller, of Montgomery, heard her 5-year-old Eva make a few days ago. The mother left her up stairs work and hurried to the lower floor where she found the child enveloped in flames. The mother quickly extinguished the flames before they reached the child's body. The greater portion of her woolen dress was burned. The underclothing were also woolen, which prevented the flames from burning more rapidly. The child during her mother's absence had climbed on the table and had secured several matches out of a box, which she afterwards ignited.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Tyrone After a Shoe Factory.

A committee of of Tyrone citizens are canvassing the town to raise a certain amount to induce a Williamsport shoe factory to go to that place. The committee has met with unbounded success, and if other conditions are favorable, Tyrone will likely get the industry. This is the same firm that wanted to come to Bellefonte.
